About me

You can go through my projects in my portfolio by visiting: <https://leonardobenvinda.pt/>

I've been fascinated by technology for as long as I can remember. IT allowed me to transform my enthusiasm into a career. My main interests are software development and system administration. I recently developed a significant interest in AI and robotics, the latter playing a major role in my bachelor's final project. My most significant working experience was as an IT technician, where I tackled not only the typical responsibilities of support but also developed some software for internal use.
